ROOSEVELT AND LAFOLLETTE

Republican leaders in convention, through public speech and through editorial column lose no opportunity to pay high tribute to Theodore Roosevelt because of his efforts to secure reform in the relations between corporations and the people.

But these same representatives of the republican party have no kind words for Robert M. La Follette, senator from Wisconsin. On the contrary republican editors tell us that Mr. La Follette is no longer a republican. The Kansas City Journal recently said that if we take that Mr. La Follette had declared that he would leave the republican party if vice president Fairbanks were nominated in 1908, then it must be the admission of the republican party to go to Indiana for its candidate.

In these professions of attachment for Mr. Roosevelt are due to his desire for reform regardless why he has come, whose sincerely no one questions and great work Washington or republican friends.

They are Roosevelt's adherents caused by his vigorous entanglements in the political affairs of the country which will be republican voters.

Now does it happen that the men from party is so ready to hate Mr. Roosevelt—who often says good things to our enemies—in his reform measures while it has no kind thought of giving up to him, and even Roosevelt who fails to make any real compromise in regard to the interests of popular government. The Roosevelt is a man of great personal worth.

STORY ABOUT LORENE

The manufacturer of Cinerex, Novo, and other of the various prints and colors are especially descriptive of Mr. J. S. Johnson, the well known and able engineer who tests exceedingly optimistic and optimistic regarding the possibilities for the development of another enormous gold-bearing region.

Carlin is fifty miles southwest of old Austin and the best way to reach it is from that point as there is a fairly good wagon road over which to travel. Carlin is also 12 miles west of Austin.
